A Report on - Transitional Curriculum Program

About the event:

The Transitional Curriculum Program, which was introduced by the CCIM in collaboration with the Ministry of AYUSH, was successfully conducted by the Academic Cell of GJPIASR as part of the Transitional Curriculum for newly admitted first-year students of the B.A.M.S. professional course. This 15-day program was organized with great enthusiasm and received strong support from all the faculty members, ASU guest speakers, and students.

The program's success was further enhanced by the guidance and blessings of the Chairman of CVMU, Er. Shri Bhikhubhai Patel, and the Director of GJPIASR, Prof. (Dr) C. H. Babaria.

The meticulously planned ASU lectures, the Vadatu Sansritam series, sessions on general awareness in the field of Ayurveda and guidance through various clinical and practical approaches were successfully organized as part of the proposed Transitional Curriculum. The program also included visits to hospital OPD/IPD and College-Campus. Respective departmental visits were also conducted effectively according to the schedule.

The Ayurveda Vriksha Vatika visits were successfully organized and conducted on time with great enthusiasm by the Academic Cell, with support from both the working and non-working staff.

The program commenced during the auspicious month of Diwali on November 5th. The event began with a warm welcome for all the newly admitted first-year students. Senior faculty members distributed kits containing essential stationery and clinical tools to ensure the students were well-prepared for their academic journey. The event saw an impressive attendance rate, with nearly 100% participation.

Following light refreshments, students were assigned their hostel accommodations, and a meeting with their counselor teachers was arranged. Each day of the Transitional Program included a series of lectures curated by CCIM, designed to provide newly admitted students with a comprehensive understanding of the B.A.M.S. course, its structure, and the details of the subsequent years of study.
